Consequences

Our goal is to encourage nurturing, positive behavior from our students by using positive consequences such as: classroom rewards, Caught with Character recognition, Grizzly Greatness awards, visits with Mrs. Gilbert, a complementary call home and feeling good inside.

There are times, however, when negative consequences are required to modify unacceptable behavior as well as ensure that all students see that negative behavior is addressed immediately and appropriately whenever possible, confirming for them the safety of our school.

Below are the three levels of general behaviors that will result in consequences.

Levels	Example Behaviors	Example Consequence
Level One: Yellow	Bothering others Mean words Excluding others Not stopping when asked Cutting in line	Sincere verbal apology Student/student problem solving Cool down on bench
Level Two: Orange	Pushing others Foul language Safety issues: Throwing, tripping, etc.	Warning slip sent home Cool down on bench Sincere written apology
Level Three: Red	Fighting Safety issues: Out of bounds/Off campus Disrespect towards adults Stealing Any sexual, racial or gender harassment	Sent to principal's office

Dress code

The purpose of a dress code is to help students set a standard for their personal appearance. A student's dress often will determine conduct and academic attitude. Clothing must be clean and appropriate for the season, without holes.

Clothing

Some clothing that is appropriate for wear away from school may not be appropriate for wear at school. Any clothing or apparel that is distracting or a disturbance to the educational process will not be permitted, such as:

- Clothing which has slogans that are in poor taste, such as advertising for alcoholic beverages, inappropriate language, etc.
- Clothing that does not cover the midriff, cleavage or does not conceal underwear.
- Hats and sunglasses are permitted outdoors only.

Shoes

Students should be dressed appropriately to participate in Physical Education and recess activities everyday. Shoes like Crocs and thongs are not appropriate for school activities. Students should be able to run, jump, and be able to kick a firm ball. Shoes with wheel are not allowed at school. Sneakers and tennis shoes are the best choices.
